NOTES ON THE RECORD ROOM OF THE CITY OF PERTH (SECOND ARTICLE). By DAVID MARSHALL, F.S.A. Scot.

In the Session of 1895-96 I had the honour to submit to this Society a series of Notes on the contents of the Record Room of Perth, which I had been employed by the Magistrates in arranging. I then stated that there was still a remnant of the papers untouched, which it was hoped might, in the near future, be overtaken. After giving in a report, at the request of Lord Provost Dewar, of what more I thought should be done, I was recalled to complete the arrangement, and it seems desirable that a further notice should now be given.

It was my misfortune to underrate the extent of the work involved in the second undertaking, and the time which had to be spent in freeing the papers from the extraneous matters among which they lay chiefly upon the floor of one of the attics, every movement of the pile raising a cloud of dust, which affected my lungs, so that at the end of the first month I thought it would be necessary to give it up; but after a few days' rest I returned to it again, and, after months of labour, was able to restore many valuable documents to the principal Record Room, from which they had from time to time been ruthlessly torn.

There is greater variety in the second series of papers than in the first, and, to some extent, a rearrangement of the first was necessary to bring the relative parts together, which would have been obviated had the papers been dealt with as a whole at the beginning, and an amount of unseen labour prevented, irksome to myself, and, I fear, but little understood by my employers.

As in the case of the first series of papers, Processes-at-law and Decrees bulk largely. The shelves also groan under Criminal Processes, Confessions, Declarations, Sentences, Proceedings of Circuit Courts,
NOTES ON THE RECORD ROOM OF THE CITY OF PERTH. 415

Death Sentences, Respite, Transportations, Petitions from poor imprisoned Debtors for Aliment and Act of Grace, Dispositions by Debtors in Prison to Creditors, revealing much of what has been termed the seamy side of human life. There are also Spirit and Ale Licences, with relative Certificates of Character, and Licences to Carriers, Brokers, etc., all the foregoing extending over a period of from one hundred to one hundred and fifty years.

Railway papers include those of the first projected railway between Perth and Dunkeld (1835), which was surveyed by Messrs Robert and Allan Stevenson, civil engineers, Edinburgh (father and grandfather of Robert Louis Stevenson), and those relative to the lines subsequently carried out.

The Tax papers consist of Personal Stent Rolls, 1720-99; Window Tax Rolls, 1747-99; Assessed Tax Rolls, 1769-99; other Tax papers, 1750-1866. Among these may be noted two receipts granted to the Laird of McNab.

The Claims of Services of Heirs, General Services and Decrees of Cognition, extend from 1731 to 1850, among which may be named the General Service of John, third Duke of Atholl, as heir to Jean Murray, only child in life of the deceased David Murray, dyer, Provost of Perth (1694-95),—said Jean Murray being a cousin of Amelia Murray, the Duke’s mother, who was the only child and heiress of James Murray of Glencarse, younger brother of Provost Murray,—of a tenement of land, workhouse, etc., lying without the Castle Gavel Port, built by Provost Murray, dated Perth, 28th September 1771. The Mandate of the Duke is enclosed of date at Dunkeld, 25th September 1771.

Another noteworthy document is a General Service in favour of James Lindsay, eldest son and heir of Martin Lindsay, writer in Edinburgh, and grandson of James Lindsay, last Laird of Dowhill, Kinross-shire, of certain subjects in the Southgate of Perth, dated Perth, 12th June 1792. The Mandate of James Lindsay is enclosed of date at London, 23rd May 1792.

The Shipping Papers are not numerous, and relate to the Good Will, and Margaret of Perth, 1761-75; Breadalbane, 1792-94; Duchess of Atholl, 1801; Lord Gray, 1816-21; Eagle, and Rose, 1838-49. Ship's Log and other papers of said Rose of Perth, which was lost on a voyage from Belfast to Archangel, 17th December 1849.

An interesting lot are the papers relative to the Royal Perth City Volunteers, enrolled 7th November 1794, and papers of the County Militia and Volunteers; lists of officers and married men, and allowances to their wives and children, and marching guineas; certified Returns of the Male Inhabitants of Perth from eighteen to forty-five liable to serve in the Militia (November 1802); Assessments to reimburse the Government for their aid to the families of militia-men; Lists of the Perthshire Gentlemen Yeomanry (Dupplin Castle, 18th December 1801), etc., 1794-1814; Inlistments, Recruits, Deserters, 1774-1860.

Sequestrations and Trusts occupy considerable space, and extend from 1775 towards the present time, and include papers, letters, and accounts of James Morrison & Co., merchants, 1764-98; of Bailie Peter Duff, merchant, 1759; of John Bisset, bookbinder, stationer, and general merchant, 1754-1806; additional papers of the Melvill Trust, 1712-1831.

The Tacks of the town's mills, lands, and revenues begin in 1697, and of private estates in 1743. There is an Account of the Rent of the Blackfriars, etc., for forty years from 1686 to 1727; also an Estimate of the true and real rent of the Mills, Fishings, Inches, and Burrow Muir of Perth, 1712; and papers relative to the management of various estates in the country, with inventories of household furniture, etc., 1789-1830.

Papers relative to combinations of workmen to raise their wages, 1799-1802; Abstract Act against Combinations among Tradesmen, 29th July 1800; Declarations of some journeymen blacksmiths aent shorter hours; Petition by the Procurator-Fiscal to the Magistrates of Perth relative to Combinations of Shipmasters to raise the price of Coal, 19th April 1797,—show that contentions between master and man are not new, and that what is now regarded as lawful and right, was treated in our great-grandfathers' days as criminal.
The papers relative to the building of the new Bridge of Earn, with which the name of the celebrated John Rennie is associated as engineer, are of interest, and extend from 1820 to 1824. The contractor received £10,000 for building the bridge, which was let the first year for £1295, the Postmaster-General paying £27, 12s. quarterly for the mail coach.

The papers anent the poor of Perth and the unemployed extend from 1775 to 1843, and are of special interest in connection with the unemployed hand-loom weavers in 1819.

The accounts of Mr Patrick Miller, junior, writer in Perth, as doer for Robert Robertson, Esq. of Tullybelton, etc., for the years 1789-98, contain many references to the family of Robert Nicol the poet, viz., Robert Nicol, tenant of the mill and mill lands of Tullybelton, the poet's paternal grandfather, and John Fenwick, "Elder John," tenant in Hole of Tullybelton, the poet's maternal grandfather, whose character is so touchingly portrayed by his grandson in his inimitable poem, "My Grandfather."

In previous Notes, the "Establishment of the Post Office" occupies an important place. Other relative papers have since been found. Among these is a skeleton time bill of the Mail Coach between Edinburgh and Aberdeen, and Aberdeen and Edinburgh, in 179—, with the contractors' names, and the distances traversed between the various stages. The coach travelled from Edinburgh by Queensferry, Kinross, Perth, Dundee, Arbroath, Montrose, Bervie, Stonehaven, to Aberdeen, the distance being one hundred and thirty-two miles, and the time allowed for the journey twenty-one hours and fifty minutes, allowing thirty minutes for dinner at Perth, and twenty-five minutes for supper at Arbroath. Passengers by the mail from Aberdeen supped at Arbroath, and breakfasted at North Queensferry, for which twenty-five minutes were allowed in each case. This form was issued by the General Post Office, Edinburgh, under the authority of Thomas Elder, the Deputy Postmaster-General for Scotland. The Mail Coach was a vast improvement upon the service rendered by three poorly-paid postmen who travelled thrice a week on foot between Edinburgh and Aberdeen a century earlier.

We were surprised to learn that there was a Money Order Branch of the Post Office in operation before July 1803, as appears from a letter of Samuel Matthew, agent of that department at the General Post Office, Edinburgh, to Bailie Duff, then Postmaster at Perth. A parcel of Invoice Bills showing the postal value of the Letters sent from the General Post Office, Edinburgh, to Perth, from 6th January to 30th April 1803, is among the more recent finds. In the month of January, the value of unpaid letters amounted to £158, 13s. 9d., while the paid letters only amounted to £1, 5s. 8d.! The liberty to send letters under a high tariff without being prepaid must have been sadly abused, burdensome to the recipients, especially of the humbler classes, and a loss to not a few.

The correspondence of the Town-Clerks and others forms a large collection, reaching down from 1721. The correspondence of the Lord Provosts of Perth embraces the period between 1780 and 1831, and among the many subjects dealt with, is the acquiring of Gowrie House and gardens from the Government in exchange for other lands, viz., five acres of Sir Thos. Moncrieff's lands, for which the town was to pay the price fixed by a jury (1805). It will be remembered that the town made a present of this historic building to the Duke of Cumberland. The re-purchase being effected, a committee of the Town Council was appointed for demolishing Gowrie House, and selling the materials, 6th January 1806, who report on 3rd February inst., that the materials of Gowrie House had been sold by public roup at £597, 11s. 7d. sterling, payable three months after the 29th ultimo.— (Minutes of Council.)

The attics have yielded many papers relative to the Academy and other schools of Perth and neighbourhood, in addition to the finds in the Record Room. The schools of Perth have occupied a conspicuous place in the annals of Scotland since the 12th century, and an interesting narrative could be unfolded from these documents did time permit. The subject of female education, however, came slowly to the front. Isobell Urquhart had a salary from the town of £12 Scots (£1 sterling) for keeping a school a whole year in 1713. Mrs Agnes Ranken, schoolmistress, Perth, petitions the Council, in 1719, for encouragement to carry on her school, which had been put much out of its course by the late rebellion, but nothing appears to have been done for her, although she refers to the sacrifices of her father to the town, and that for many years she had applied herself to “teaching of girles the sciences fitt and necessary for their accomplishment, and also to educate her own daughters in the knowledge of these things.”

Hannah Robertson, schoolmistress, Perth, petitions the magistrates, 5th August 1765, to continue her salary, having carried on her school, conform to their regulations, for two years.

There are several documents in the collection which show forcibly the poverty-stricken condition of the country schoolmasters of last century.

Fortunately there has been secured a large bundle of copies of petitions, addresses, and memorials from the civic rulers to the Sovereign, Parliament, Ministers of State, Lords of the Treasury, etc., from 1795 to 1868, the whole forming a sort of political index to the period in question; among which there is the draft of an address to his Majesty Louis Philippe, King of the French, from the Town Council of the City and Royal Burgh of Perth, “of which his Majesty was

1 Among the city papers there is an Elegy “To the memory of Mrs Agnes Rankin, spouse to Captain John Wilson, who departed this life, March 22, 1729,”—docketed “Captain Wilson, his Lady’s memorial, 22nd March 1729, composed by Mr B.,” in which the following lines occur:—

“Now thou my muse can only drop a tear,
But can’t attempt a monument to rear;
Her portraiture pretend not for to draw,
But only on her hearse some lilies straw.
Religion and good sense were both combined,
In her ingenuous and accomplished mind.
She was a loving wife, a faithful friend, Unstained integrity she still retained.”
an honoured citizen," expressing their horror and indignation at the foul and treasonable attempt made upon his Majesty's life, and congratulating him upon his fortunate escape. This address refers to an attack made upon the life of the king by firing at him in the park of Fontainbleau, 16th April 1846. We have not been able to ascertain the date when Louis Philippe was made a burgess of the "Fair City," but suppose it to have happened during one of his two residences in Britain, as Duke of Orleans, from 1800 to 1807, or from 1815 to 1817, most probably in the earlier period, when he visited many parts of the island. With regard to our own beloved Queen, it may be said that a note of nearly all the joys and sorrows of her august reign is contained in this unique bundle. Besides the letters, etc., relative to the first visit of the Queen and Prince Albert to Perth, 6th September 1842, formerly mentioned, there is a large bundle of papers connected with the International Exhibition at London, 1851, with which the name of the lamented Prince Consort will ever be associated; also copy of a submission and decree arbitral in a question of boundaries of lands betwixt H.R.H. Prince Albert and James Farquharson of Invercauld, 1855–1856, and a letter of the Prince of Wales concerning the Imperial Institute, dated Marlborough House, Pall Mall, 24th December 1886, addressed to the Lord Provost of Perth.

The right of the Chief Magistrate of Perth to bear the title of Lord Provost was challenged by the Lord Justice-Clerk in the High Court of Justiciary in 1828, and the question was raised again in the same Court in 1836, when Mr George Patton, counsel for the city, was called upon to state the authority upon which the title had been conferred, and upon which it had been continued. Upon this representation the Court expressed an opinion that Mr Patton had put the matter upon a very probable footing, but added that the point should now be set at rest, and the grounds put on record by a Minute,¹ which was accordingly done.

¹ Two copies of the printed Minute and relative letters, etc., having been discovered in the attics, they, some time ago, formed the subject of an article contributed by me to the 'Perthshire Constitutional,' which attracted considerable attention.
NOTES ON THE RECORD ROOM OF THE CITY OF PERTH.

The papers under the Tay Navigation and Harbour Act occupy a very considerable space, and furnish some interesting statistics relative to the salmon fishings in the river.

There is a valuable collection of papers in relation to the Reform Bill of 1832. Previously to that year the burgh of Perth was associated with a group of burghs, Dundee, Forfar, St Andrews, and Cupar, in returning a member to the British Parliament, but under the Reform Act of 1832 the city of Perth obtained a member for itself. While Reform was in the air Lord Advocate Jeffrey, the sitting member for the Perth burghs, received a vote of thanks from the Town Council for his services, to which he returned the following characteristic answer, recently discovered:

"WIMBLEDON COMMON,
 Friday Evg., 11th Nov. 1831.

My Lord,—Owing to my having gone into town this morning before the Post came here, I had not the great gratification of receiving your Lordship's obliging letter of the 8th, with the accompanying Minute of Council, till my return here a few minutes ago.

I need not say that nothing could be more gratifying to me than the tenor of these communications—except perhaps the very flattering and cordial manner in which they have been conveyed to me by your Lordship. I hope I may be allowed to add that my sensations would have been very different if I had been conscious that they were altogether undeserved—and that I should have felt the kind expressions you are pleased to employ as the bitterest of all possible reproaches, if I had really been actuated at any time with feelings of hostility towards those to whom I owe nothing but gratitude and respect. All these misunderstandings, however, are now over, and I shall never again recall them to my thoughts.

I have heard with great pride and pleasure of the excellent conduct of the friends of Reform in your Fair City. This is as it ought to be, and as I have always maintained it would be with such a population. They have behaved as men who deserved to succeed in their just claims should always behave, and beyond all doubt in the way best calculated to ensure and accelerate their success. None of us must yet relax our efforts, or even appear to abate in our zeal. But with proper exertions, our success, I think, is not only assured, but at hand. I have no faith in any changes in the former plan of Reform except to make it more popular, and I think I may safely say that the last part of the Scotch Bill that is likely to be altered is that which gives Perth a member to itself.
"Have the goodness to accept for yourself, and to express to your brother councillors the deep sense I entertain of their kindness, and to assure them that this feeling shall only make me more anxious to prove that I am not unworthy of the confidence they are pleased to place in me.—I have the honour to be, your Lordship's obliged and faithful servant, F. JEFFREY.

"To the Lord Provost of Perth, etc., etc."

The several efforts to "win coal" in the Burgh Muir at Perth between the years 1686 and 1732 were formerly noticed. In 1765 (according to a recent find), a company of Perth gentlemen, under the name of James Balmain and Company, made a new effort to obtain this valuable mineral from estates in the parishes of Dumbarney, Dron, and Abernethy, and secured leases for forty-one years—three years being allowed for making trial—of the coal, limestone, and other minerals on the estates of Dron, Kilgraston, Dumbarney, and Abernethy, without success.

The following letter addressed to Mr Robert Peddie, Town-Clerk of Perth, shows a much later effort to find coal in the same quarter:—

"Sir,—I humbly ask pardon in so troubling you at this time, but as I purpose to cut in the ground of Balmanno to-morrow, in pursuance of Coal, I humbly bege the favour of your Letter of Order, to show my authority for so doing.—I am, &c.,

ROBERT MOUTRIE.

"ABERARGIE, 8th August 1820."

Between the last two dates an attempt was made to find coal on the estate of Machany, nine miles from Perth, and a public advertisement issued for contributions of money to carry on the work, dated 22nd August 1782. This also ended in failure.

In 1804 Mr John Syme proposed to the Town Council of Perth a scheme for supplying the town of Perth and adjacent country with coal by means of an iron railway, if the town would be one-half of the expense of the road; but to this proposal no answer was ever received. In 1808, rather than lose sight of the matter, Mr Syme was disposed to take upon himself the burden of the whole expense, provided an Act of Parliament could be obtained. At this stage the Council agreed to give the town's concurrence to the measure, and any influence they had in carrying it through, on the express condition that they would be at no expense in allowing their names to be used in the application to Parliament, or otherwise. The immediate advantages to be derived by the town of Perth, as set forth in Mr Syme's proposal, were—(1) coals of fully as good quality, and much more regularly delivered than at present; (2) the supply of Kinross-shire and part of Fife with mercantile goods, etc. Mr Syme, the proposer, is unfortunately not designed, but was most probably Mr John Syme, W.S., proprietor at the time of the estate of Lochore, rich in minerals, on the borders of Fife and Kinross, father of the late Professor Syme of Edinburgh, and David Syme, Esq. of Warroch, Sheriff-Substitute of Kinross-shire. It is needless to say that the scheme thus dimly foreshadowed was never carried out, and Perth had to wait nearly forty years before the iron horse and iron railway brought her, in a roundabout way, a prime necessity of human life, and other forty years before direct communication with the coalfields of Fife, such as Mr Syme pleaded for, by way of Glenfarg and Kinross, was obtained.

Among the many curious broadsides which have been discovered in the arrangement of the city papers, is one of more than ordinary interest, being a “Declaration” of the so-called “Friends of the People,” a political body which took its rise after the French Revolution of 1789, and of which a branch was formed at Perth about the year 1792. The members were looked upon with distrust by the “sober-minded” at the time, but there is nothing in the document, so far as we can judge, to have caused alarm, apart from the state of society at the period in which this society originated.

Having thus briefly sketched the general character of the contents of the attics, we shall note a few of the more remarkable finds. Of these the Obligation by King James the First of Scotland for his ransom holds the first place. The Scottish King had been illegally seized by the English during a period of truce, therefore the English Government, instead of insisting for a ransom, which would have been a palpable piece of injustice, limited their claim to payment of the expenses incurred in supporting their kingly charge during his residence in England, and these they fixed at forty thousand pounds of English money, to be paid in yearly portions of ten thousand marks. James required not only to promise on the word of a king and upon oath to pay this sum, but twenty-one hostages from the noblest families in Scotland required to enter into the hands of the English Government, and remain in England at their own expense till the whole amount was paid; and for greater security a separate obligation was given by the four chief towns—Edinburgh, Perth, Dundee, and Aberdeen—whereby they engaged to defray this sum to the treasury of England should it not be paid by the king himself. James received as the dower of his wife, Johanna de Beaufort, daughter of the Earl of Somerset, a relaxation from the payment of ten thousand marks of the sum originally agreed upon, so that there remained fifty thousand marks to be accounted for. The King of Scots granted Letters of Obligation undertaking to indemnify the four burghs of the above sum, for which they had became bound to the King of England, and one of the finds among the papers in the attics has been the Burgh of Perth's copy of this most interesting document. Aberdeen and Dundee possess copies. The text of the Aberdeen copy, which is word for word with that of Perth, along with a translation, was printed in a series of charters and other documents relating to the City of Edinburgh for the Scottish Burgh Record Society in 1871. There is a facsimile of the Dundee copy in a volume of charters published by the magistrates of that burgh in 1880, with a translation exactly the same as in the Edinburgh volume. Notwithstanding the ill-usage it has met with, the Perth copy of the king's obligation is well preserved. The seal, however, has been removed along with a strip of the parchment, which may denote that the bond has been cancelled. The date of this venerable document is at Durham, the 26th day of March 1424. On the return of the king, in his first Parliament held at Perth in 1424, a scheme of taxation was instituted for the payment of the arrears of his maintenance (or ransom) while in England.

The next document in point of date is one of most melancholy interest, and relates to the steps which the government of the day thought necessary for the defence of Perth, then practically the capital of Scotland, after the foul murder of King James the First within its borders. The tragical death of this virtuous sovereign, whose release from a captivity of nineteen years the earlier document records, took place on the night between the 20th and 21st February 1437, when his son and successor, James the Second, was only six years of age, in whose name, about a fortnight after the demise of the king, his father, the following “Charge” was delivered to the community of Perth. There are two docketts on the paper, and we give both as a heading to our transcript:

Ane Charge be King James the Secund To the toun for fanseing the burgh wyth wallis in respect of the murthur of King James the First. Ane Charge to mak wallis about the toun to resist the Kingis rebellis. James be the Grace of God kyng of Scottis To the Alderman, Bailleis, and communiteit of oure burgh of Perth greeting. The strong paper on which the document is written is a little crushed and slightly rent, but otherwise well preserved, while the beautiful writing is not faded. Unfortunately the seal has mouldered away.

Letter of Obligation by Andrew, Abbot of Dunfermline, in favour of Patrick Charteris, Provost, Magistrates, and Community of Perth, wherein the Abbot makes over to the town for six years the church and revenues thereof for two hundred merks and payment of fifty merks yearly, being the amount paid by the town for building the choir and vestibule, dated 16th June 1440.

Letter of Confirmation by James (Haldenstone), Prior of the Cathedral Church of St Andrews, and Vicar-General, the Bishop being absent in foreign parts, and also the Chapter of the said church in favour of the town of Perth, ratifying the above obligation by the Abbot of Dunfermline, and other two writs granted by him and the convent thereof, namely, an indenture between the said Abbot, etc., and the community of Perth, conferring an exclusive right of burial in the choir of the parish church upon the town, proceeding upon the narrative that they had at their own cost and expense founded and built anew a choir and vestibule to the church, and had thereafter upheld it in all necessary repairs, dated 20th May 1440; and a letter of said abbot and convent, bestowing an exclusive right of burial in the nave and without the choir of the said church, dated 9th June 1440. The first two are now wanting, but are fortunately preserved verbatim in the letter or charter of confirmation by the Prior of St Andrews, which is of date 3rd September 1440. The three seals are gone, but the blue plaited silken cord by which they were suspended remains attached.

Discharge by Mr David Lindsay, minister of Leith, afterwards Bishop of Ross, who accompanied King James the Sixth to Norway as his chaplain, and on the 23rd November 1589 married his Majesty to the Princess Anne of Denmark at Upslo, when he performed the ceremony in the French language. Unfortunately, the name of the "bailzie" is blank in the body of the discharge, but we may almost assume that "Jeremie Lindsay, bailzie," who signs the discharge, was the future bishop's son, Sir Jerome Lindsay, knight of Annatland, Lord Lyon from 1621 to 1639.

A manuscript volume folio, bearing on the first leaf these words: "This Book pertained to Alexander Blair, and wreatten Be himself in anno 1665." It contains a translation of the principal Latin Charter of Confirmation granted by King James the Sixth to the Royal Burgh of Perth, dated 15th November 1600; copy of a Decret obtained by the town of Perth against Dundee; a brief summary of the most substantial points of the chief writs granted to the burgh of Perth, and writs of the teinds of the parish of Perth. But the real value of the book lies in its containing a roll of the Magistrates of Perth from Records 1364, 1461, 1474, and uninterruptedly from 1464 to 1694 inclusive. Mr James Cant, surgeon, Perth, in his edition of the Muses Threnodie by W. Adamson, published at Perth in 1774, brings down the list of magistrates to Michaelmas 1766. But it does not appear that he ever saw Blair's list.

List of the Householders of Perth liable to payment of compositions for their statute services to the highways for the year 1776, contained in a small quarto book of ninety-eight pages, arranged in four "quarters" corresponding to the present four wards.

Another valuable discovery is a "Register of the names, designations, and times of admission, of Honorary or Gratis Burgesses by the Magistrates of Perth, beginning 14th February 1705," and ending abruptly 13th October 1772. We had previously found some leaves of this Register in the principal Record Room, and put them carefully past until the rest of the Record came into our hands. It is probable there was an older Register of the names of those eminent individuals whom the citizens of Perth were pleased to honour, but it cannot now be traced, and for any record earlier than 1705 or later than 1772 we must be mainly indebted to casual entries in the Treasurer's Accounts. Thus we learn that in 1654, there was paid for writing Burgess tickets for General Monk and others, £43; for making seals to said tickets, £6, 13s. 4d.; for three skins of parchment for the Burgess tickets, £2, 10s. Scots; and a further expenditure upon "Spice and wyne given to Generall Monk at his admissione to be Burges in David Jackson's house of £153, 2s. 6d." (Scots money). In 1660–61, the Lord Lyon [Sir Alex. Durham of Largo] was made a Burgess; and in 1670, six parchment skins, costing £4, were required when the Lord Chancellor (Rothes) and his followers were made Burgesses, besides bees'-wax, and the expense of "ane treat given to my Lord Chancellor and his followers, conforme to ane particular accompt thereof, £492, 8s. Scots." On the 28th of October 1751, the whole officers of Wolfe's Regiment were made Burgesses at supper in Anne Hickson's Tavern, under the auspices of Provost John Robertson, and we may suppose that some of these, as well as men in the ranks from Perth, were in the little army under the immortal Wolfe, which gave us Canada a few years later. As formerly mentioned, there is an original letter of Wolfe in the Record Room, addressed to Lord Provost Cree, dated Perth, 18th July 1750.

Among the Honorary Burgesses in the Register, the following may be named:

22nd October 1708. — George, Earl of Cromartie, Justice-General; Mr Laurence Oliphant of Gask, younger; George Miller, writer in Perth.
17th May 1709.—Mr Thomas Halyburton, Minister of the Gospel at Ceres.
4th July 1710.—William, Earl of Kilmarnock; William, Lord Boyd.
30th August 1710.—Alexander Moncreiff of Colfargie.
12th April 1711.—Mr Archibald Moncreiff, Minister at Blackford. (Ancestor of Lord Moncreiff of Tullieboile.)
22nd May 1711.—Colonel John Erskine of Carnock; Laurence Craige of Kilgraston, younger.

The following testimony from Colonel Daniell, Governor of Perth, confirms the statement made as to the ruin wrought upon the town by Cromwell in building his Citadel:

"In regard I am informed that there is a suite dependeing betwixt Mr. William Wallace in Edinburgh and Alexander Burgess and Baker in Perth concerning one Malte Barne, kiln, and Koble, called the Temple-land, being a parte of the suburbs of this towne of Perath, and at the request and intreatie of the said Alexander Jackson, I doe hereby truely certifie the right hons. the Lords Commissiioners at Edinburgh for administracioni of Justice to the people of Scotland, that the sayd Malte Barne, kiln, and pertinents thereunto belonging were pulled downe by order of his Highness the Lord Protector (then Lord General of the Army) for the safetie of the Garrison of St. Johnston, within shorte time after the same was delivered, in the yeare one thousand six hundred ffit'ie and one, And when the same buildings with all the rest of the suburbs at the West end of the Towne of St Johnston were pulled downe as aforesayd, the greatest parte of the serviceable stones were made use of to the fortifications of the Cittadell. And in Testimone of the truth of the premises I doe hear unto sett my hand and seale at St Johnston, November 3rd, 1657.

"WILLIAM DANIELL."

The examination of the city papers in the attics has added little to the collection of papers relative to the risings of 1715 and 1745. As formerly noticed, the town provided necessaries for the sick of the Duke of Cumberland's army in the hospital in February 1746, including "canvas for palliaces." Some additional information is supplied by the following Memorandum:—"Straw for the sick in the Regimental Hospital, one Truss of Thirty-six pounds to be allowed for each palliass used, to be changed as often as may be deemed necessary. Wood—The sick in the Regimental Hospital are to be allowed six pounds each per diem if it should be found necessary." (Slip found in attic.)

1747.—A Petition of Andrew Kippen, sen., glover, Tacksman of the

NOTES ON THE RECORD ROOM OF THE CITY OF PERTH.

Castle Gavil Port from Mart. 1744 to Mart. 1745, to the Town Council of Perth, shows that he had only received 800 merks of Custom at most, occasioned by the stop to trade while the rebels were in possession of the town; but confiding in the Council for redress he had paid the whole tack duty to the Treasurer, including £323, 13s. 4d., extorted from him by the rebels, and that he had uplifted the Customs of the Port from Mart. 1745 to 11th June 1746, and paid the same to the Treasurer.

1747.—Another Petition by Kippen as Tacksman of the Inches from Mart. 1745 to Mart. 1746 for redress, shows that by his tack he was entitled to reparation of damages sustained in time of war. During that year the Inches were partly taken up by encampments of the Hessian army, and the petitioner only received half grass meal (rent), there not being nearly the number of bestial entered on the Inches. He deburred £13, 14s. 7\frac{1}{2}d. ster. for cleaning the Inches, herd’s fees, etc., and was compelled to pay the Reebells £160, 13s. Scots, being part of the tack duty of the Inches for the previous year.

Upon these and other Petitions from the tacksmen of the town’s revenues of lands, fishings, etc., to the Town Council, all dated 1747, for an allowance for the money extorted from them by the rebels and other damages sustained by them during the Rebellion in the year 1745, the Council, by their Act dated 11th May 1747, granted the desired relief, and particularly to Donald Cameron, tacksman of the town’s garden in the New Row, by the rebels carrying off or destroying the produce of his garden, an allowance of £50 Scots was made, for which he grants a discharge dated at Perth 14th January 1751.

The Charters of the City were formerly referred to, and are contained in a press which occupies a niche of the principal Record Room. There are upwards of 600 writs alphabetically arranged, numbered, and catalogued, extending from 1210 to 1829; besides other documents such as Treasurer’s Accounts, etc. Now that the scattered parts have been brought together, there are comparatively few documents of value wanting, and some of these must have been missing for a considerable period. We specially regret the loss of two, viz.:—
50 ["not found"].—Item a Little Gilded Book wherein King James the Sixth, King Charles the First, the Duke of Lennox, and several other noblemen of this kingdom by their writings under their own hands insert in the said Book freely and voluntarily condescended to give towards the rebuilding of the Bridge of Tay the several considerable sums of money therein mentioned, which voluntar Condescendances are by his present Majesty King Charles the Second not only ratifyed and confirmed but also firmly purposed by him, God willing, in his own time to prosecute that pious and royal design in causing rebuild the said Bridge conform to an writing likewise insert in the said Book, and subscribed with his Royal hand, at Whitehall, 27 July 1661.” (From Inventory of the Writs belonging to the Town of Perth, as contained in an old “Inventar,” 1st Sept. 1777.)

21 [wanting].—“Item Order of the Pretender’s son for Five Hundred Pounds Sterling and Capuch’s receipt for the same 1745, with an Account of the Town’s other Losses by the Rebels” (ibid.).

We may be allowed to mention a few of the Documents among the town’s Charters.

Obligation by David of Ferne, Alderman, John of Spense and John of Chalmers, Burgesses and Commissioners of Perth, in consideration of £600 Scots paid by the Auditors of Exchequer, to pay 1200 nobles (nobis de payse) on demand towards the Ransom of King James the First of Scotland to the King of England and his deputies. Dated at Perth 27th August 1424. Part of the seal of the Burgh remains attached.

Deliverance and Decreet Arbitral betwixt the town of Perth and Sir John of Ruthven anent the Midsummer Fair and the Court thereof, whereby it is discerned that the same should pertain to the town. Dated at Perth 19th June 1442 years, and sealed with the Seals of the Arbitrators, viz., 1, William (Blair), Abbot of Cuper; 2, Patrick Lyon, Lord of Glamis, Knight (seal broken off); 3, Andrew Gray, Lord of Foulis; 4, David Murray of Tulibardin, Knight; 5, Thomas of Abercrumby of that Ilk; 6 William of Murrai; 7 George Grai; 8 Patrick of Murrai.

1 Also Laird of Murthlie.

Discharge by King James the Sixth to the Burgh of Perth of the sum of £12,000 Scots, being their proportion of the "Tocher" payable to his Majesty on his marriage in 1589. Dated at the Castle of Stirling, 9th July 1594, and Registered in the Books of Council at Edinburgh 16th July 1594. A characteristic letter from the King precedes the Acquittance. Dated from the Castle of Stirling, 10th May 1594.

The City Treasurers' Accounts from the Restoration, for the most part, downwards, are upon the shelves of the Record Room and of great bulk. The accounts and "Instructions" (vouchers) in the Charter Press are in forty bundles. They begin in 1562, and come down to 1706, and are of special interest between the years 1639 and 1660.

Among the Instructions of Robert Gardiner, Treasurer, 1703–4, there is—

A Bond for £24 Scots granted by Mr Gilbert Gardiner, writer, Postmaster at Perth, to the said Treasurer, for the Town's Badge, being "Ane silver Badge formerly used to be carried by the toune of Perth's post, of the weight of two unces and four drops silver, and bearing the townes arms thereonet." Dated at Perth, 12th November 1703.

Among sundry Documents belonging to the town of Perth, which were Inventoried in 1777, and have since gone astray, are the following:—

A Pardon by King James II. for the slaughter of his Progenitors. Dated 27 April, and first year of reign (1437).

A Bond by several Noblemen to Defend the Town of Perth, 1445, with Ten Seals attached.

A Remission to the Town of Perth for burning the House of Craigie, 1516.

The Treasurer's "Instructions" have yielded some additional documents of historic interest, of which the following may be noticed:—

A Discharge by David Setoun of Parbrocht, Comptroller to King James vth, of £2000 Scots, in Satisfaction of what his Majesty may crave of the inhabitants of Perth for Asseging of the house of Gastounhall, pertaining to Robert Bruce of Clackmannan, of date at Edinburgh, Sept. 15, 1592. [See Register of Privy Council, vol. v. pp. 6–8. In the Rental of the County of Perth 1649, there is under Kilspindie parish—"Sir Robert Bruce of Clackmannan, for his lands of Gaskinhall and Raitt, £1210 (Scots)." In a note of Hearths in the same parish 1690, belonging to "young (Blair) Balthyock," there is "in the tower house of Gastonhall 5 hearths" (Second Box, Bundle 46). See Register of Privy Council, vol. v. pp. 6-8.

Discharge of the License for remaining at hame fra the Raid of the Isles, 1596. [This Raid, called also the Northland" Raid, from which the citizens of Perth had a License to remain at hame, was directed against the Earls of Huntley and Errol, in the course of which the army under command of the Earl of Argyle was defeated by the forces of the insurgent Earls at Glenlivat, 3 October, 1594.]

The Accompts Charge and Discharge of Andro Grant, Treasurer of Perth from Martinmas 1639 to Martinmas 1640, contain "Compt" of the arms received from the burgesses in June 1640, and given out again to Captain Brown's Company in July 1640. Compt of Powder, bullets, muskets, pikes, Lunt, &c., belonging to the town, delivered by the said Andrew Grant to George Wilson, the new Treasurer, 1641.

The Instructions of Robert Anderson, Treasurer, 1651-52, contain—

Discharge of £20 for Meal to soldiers, 1651. £24 for bread to Lord Duffus’ Regiment, when the English Army was lying about the town, 1652. Compt for two sumptuous Dinners to the officers of the English Garrison in February 1652, supplied by Margaret Donaldson, widow in Perth, at a cost of £282.

The Instructions of Patrick Threapland, Treasurer (afterwards Lord Provost), 1657-1658, contain—

Compt of money "debursit" by Mr John Paterson for attending the Parliament, viz.: 100 days at £5 . . £900 0 0

Item of Debursments by and attour the forsaids dayes, Conform to particular Compt, for horse-hires, &c.; also for a Contribution in Parliament for the soldiery hurt at Wolster [Worcester ?], £5, 16s. . . . 106 4 8

Summa . . £1066 6 8

Showing that "Payment of Members" of Parliament is as old as the Cromwellian Era.

Sir Robert Mounbray, his Supplication to the Magistrates of St Johnstown.

The Humble Supplication of Sir Robert Mounbraye, sometyme Laird of Barnbougall, to the Honorable Lord Provost, remanent Magistrates, and toun Counsell of St Jhonestoun for the present, 20th of August 1655.

Please your honor knowe that I am descended of ane antiquit familie so much decayed in estate that pressing necessitie hath forced my addresse to strangeors, these to whom I have relation in kinred become unable to help me.

These five years past I have subsisted by the charitie of severall Towns and Presbiteries. The Magistrates of Edi, Sterling, Glasgow, St Andrews, Couper in fyf, Dumfermling, Dundie and Aberdein, have in these last five yeares supplyed me, of their comouan good, besyde what I had from churche Sessions. I am with God Almighty his help to depart this Kingdom for Holland, at my returne to Edi, Have procured Generall Monck his passe, for my transport beyond Seas (which youre honours may see). My present condition is verie sad and distressed, I am in rags destitute of all necessaries. I will use all lawfull meanes (altho basse and disgracefull for a gentleman) to help my rags. I have bein with some particular kinamen since my last comming from Edi, but / as I am a trew man / had not anie help of them. This is my first request to your honrs, promeissing by the faith of a gentleman it shalbe my last, therefor my humble, and earnest desyre is that your honrs may be pleased for this once to affoord me some present small help, as in thir hard tymes may be spaired for which so tymelie a supplye I shalbe bound whyle I live, to acknowledge my self.

I do attend your honrs ansuer and hope for a favorable one.

Your Honrs verie much obliged and humble servand,

ROBERT MOUBRAY.

In response to this Appeal, the Magistrates of Perth granted a small sum to the Petitioner.

Previously to the reign of King Robert the Bruce, the baronies of Dalmeny and Barnbougle were in possession of Roger Moubray, on whose forfeiture the lands were granted by that prince to Murdoch Monteith. David II. granted a Charter of Barnbougle to Bartall Loen and Phillipa Moubray his spouse—most probably a representative of the old family—on the resignation of John Grahame, Earl of Monteith.

Warrant for setting at libertie Sir Laurence Oliphant of Gask, 1655.

You are upon sight hierof to sett at liberty the person of Sir Laurence Oliphant of Gask, in respecte he hes paid the first Moyetew of his fyne to
