

6. CHIPPED STONE

Rob Engl

A single piece of chipped stone was recovered during the works. The lithic was retrieved from pit [029] in Pit Group 1. The artefact was a Platform Rejuvenation Flake made from grey flint. The colour and cortex of the flint are indicative of material originating from the glacial deposits associated with the east of Scotland and suggest a local derivation for the raw material. The artefact suggests earlier prehistoric occupation of the site and is likely Late Mesolithic in date.
